Dear Friend:

Congress will soon consider President George W. Bush's proposal to dramatically reform America's public education system. Much like Florida's A+ plan, this proposal calls for mandatory state testing of students in grades three through eight.

Before Congress takes action on the President's education plan, we should learn from Florida's experience. I hope Tampa Bay parents will join me on April 10th and share thoughts on how recent reforms in Florida are impacting student achievement.

See you there!
